

1 legislative schedule will have expired.

2 THE CHAIRMAN: Wouldn't the General Assembly
3 have plenary power to act if there were no constitutional 4 provision?

5 For what purpose does Delegate Chabot rise?

6 DELEGATE CHABOT: I suggest that the General
7 Assembly would have absolutely no power to act because as 8 this is written, present constitutional power --

9 THE CHAIRMAN: Delegate Marion has the floor,
10 Delegate Chabot.

11 DELEGATE MARION: I think Delegate Chabot was 12 starting to say the same thing I was saying, unless there 13 is effective constitutional authorization for the 14 legislature to provide that someone who is otherwise
15 qualified to vote may be disqualified for certain 16 reasons, I don't think they have the plenary power to 17 provide those disqualifications in the teeth of the 18 Constitution and I am not sure that Section 3 on page
19 15 would be constitutional as legislation during the time
20 in which we say that Section 2.06 should not be effective.

21 My suggestion simply is that Section 5 here is
